

Cooperation and Teambuilding in a Multi Cultural Environment

Waarom

Imagine you need information from your local production facility in China. You can't reach your plant manager and you are in a hurry, so you ask his assistant via email to help you to reach your deadlines by sending you the information asap. The clock is ticking and even after repeated emails you get no response. Do you know what is happening and what you can still do about it at that point?

Or your secretary in Brasil repeatedly tells you "unnecessary personal information" about your employees. Eventhough you have asked her several times to stop, she keeps on sharing stories. Does she just like to gossip or is there more to her sharing?

Approba assist you in choosing the appropriate approach and cooperation style in the culture relevant for you, as to support you in building a successful company with teams that cooperate effectively.
